What others are saying...

"Going through this program allowed me and my now wife to better understand ourselves and each other. This is an awesome program and is highly recommended for anyone getting married!"

--Robert Hart & Danielle Brown Hart

"Since the program my husband consistently talks to others about his premarital training experience with Ms. Streeter and how much it has helped him. Before now he never considered going to counseling, but now recommends this course to others."

--Crystal & Albert Pieteron

Marriage by Design: You and Me...Together Forever

“You and Me...Together Forever”

was conceptualized out of the need and burden of today’s families. The 21st Century reflects a breaking down of the family unit, which was instituted of God. Stronger couples equates to stronger family. We must enter the marriage covenant with insight and understanding of self, each other and a strong commitment to achieve a quality lifestyle forever, if we are to make a positive impact with our children.

According to the 2007 National Center for Health Statistics- CDC, of the 2,197,000 marriages, 856,000 ended in divorce. These statistics do not include larger states like California, Georgia, Indiana and Hawaii. What happens to the bliss leading up to and immediately following, “I do?” Why do couples break up? Could it be a lack of preparation?

Sometimes there are obvious signs that the relationship is on thin ice or that potential problems exist. Other times and probably most often, are the covert or hidden backdrops of our lives—unmet needs and expectations, whether real or unrealistic; one’s perception of life; and issues of family matters that surface later, all of which can be the enemy of a relationship. As outlined, this 1-day training, helps individuals become self-aware through reflections of self and family legacies; discover personal and interpersonal needs and strengths; create vision for the new marital house; provides principles and strategies of the obvious issues that are often linked to conflict and divorce—sex, money, communication; and develop a marital plan consistent with the couple’s needs and marital/family goals.

Adequately prepare for marriage demands more than a budget for a glorious ceremony and elaborate trimmings. Think Futuristic! Make an investment that ensures marital success, by including this dynamic growing and learning opportunity in your budget. You’ll enjoy an invaluable and memorable experience with a high rate of return. So take a proactive step now to discover, embark upon and live a marriage of bliss.
